INTRODUCTION

We are delighted to announce the current publication of Volume 19, Number 1 of JStatistika, affiliated with the Statistics Department at PGRI Adi Buana University Surabaya, has been released in July 2026. This particular issue of the JStatistika Scientific Journal features a diverse array of articles addressing a wide spectrum of topics.

The JStatistika Scientific Journal enthusiastically welcomes and invites contributions in a diverse range of formats, including but not limited to scholarly scientific articles that encompass various facets of statistical science. We eagerly seek research findings, comprehensive reports, insightful case studies, thorough literature reviews, and updates that pertain to the dynamic landscape of statistical science. Our overarching objective is to cultivate a repository of knowledge that is not only current but also invaluable in tackling the ever-evolving and intricate challenges confronting our field. We actively encourage authors to submit their work if it resonates with the most recent advancements and frontiers in statistical science. Our aspiration is to foster an environment where these contributions can flourish, ultimately serving as a wellspring of cutting-edge insights and understanding. We believe that these insights are instrumental in addressing the multifaceted issues that confront us in today's complex world.

Our editorial team extends a warm and inclusive invitation to scientists and scholars from diverse backgrounds and affiliations, including institutions of higher learning and esteemed research organizations. We seek your valuable contributions, whether they be grounded in empirical research results or rooted in rigorous scholarly studies within the expansive domain of statistics and its myriad practical applications. We hold a deep appreciation for the feedback and perspectives of our esteemed readership. Your input not only enriches the discourse but also plays a pivotal role in our continuous efforts to elevate the quality and relevance of the journal. We earnestly value your insights and ideas, recognizing that they are integral to our ongoing pursuit of excellence. Our ultimate vision is for the articles featured in the JStatistika Scientific Journal to transcend the confines of academia and serve as a wellspring of knowledge that benefits not only scholars and researchers but also professionals actively engaged in the diverse realms of statistical science and its multifaceted real-world applications. Through collaborative efforts and a shared commitment to advancing our understanding of statistics, we aim to make a meaningful impact in the broader scientific community and beyond.
